Mr. Bemiss Declares Property Is in Market and Offer Has Been Made.

Citizens generally were aroused yesterday to the danger to the commercial interest of Richmond in the passage of the remainder of the Trigg Shippard property, including the dock, not the hands of private concerns, a levelopment that now appears imminent.

As a result of water competition Richmond to-day enjoys freight rates nuch lower than those prevailing in other cities less fortunate in natural resources for holding the railroads in the cities less fortunate in natural resources for holding the railroads in the Virginia secoders from the national organization have won at every natividuals, who might desire to drain off the water and fill in the enclosure for building purposes, or by corporations that might find it to their advantage to prevent public use of the fact.

Neighboring manufacturing plants would suffer a disastrous blow and the city itself would find its shipping facilities seriously crippled, and itself assurance of a continuance of tavorable freight rates practically removed. The only resource then would would be the outlay of a great sunfort the construction of a new Gock in another place.

This, in view of the fact that the present property can be secured for about $125,000 is sufficient to cause ageneral demand that the proper authorities take prompt and effective action before the opportunity is lost.

at Bostock's Arena.

Miss Winnifred C. Tucker, of No. 116
North Mortis Street, won the gold-mounted llon's claw hist night in the guessing contest in Bostock's Wild Animal Arena by being the first to select D'Artagnan as the handsomest flon in the collection.

Miss Tucker and a number of friends with her were surprised and delighted when the announcement was made. She was scated well up near the big steel arena when Lecturer Alec. F. Day came in and asked for her. Then the handsome souvenir was presented.

The name of the flon had been written by Director Bostock April the sth, and put in a scaled envelope, which was put in another envelope, and again scaled, and left in the keeping of a prominent citzen, who kept it until last night, when he brought the package to the arena.

After the intermission the ballots were read, and as soon as the tellers completed their work the winner was aunonneed.

The Most Skeptient.

Dr. Williams's Pink Pills are a doctor's prescription, used by an eminent practitioner, and for nearly a generation known as a reliable household remedy throughout the United States. Needless to say, no advertised medicine could retain, popular favor for so long a period without having great merit, and it is the invaluable curative properties of the pills that have made them a standard remedy in overcy civilized country in the world. Added to this is the absolute guarantee that the pills contain no harmful drug, opiate, narcotic or stimulant. A recent ovidence of their efficiency is found in the statement of Mrs. N. B. Whitley, of Boxley, Ark., who says:

"I land suffered for a good many years from stomach trouble. For a long time two subject to had spells of failuress

The headquarters of Captain D. A. Brown, chairman of the committee on entertainment of Confederate Veterans, presented a busy appearance yesterday. Decorators were at work draping the front of the building, which is No. 505 East Main Street, with Confederate colors. Inside the click of the typewriter and call of the 'phone are heard from the rear, while in front, on long tables, are the beginnings of an accumulation of army stores that promises much for the comfort of the old soldiers who come to Richmond during the reunion. Piles of blankers are being arranged and labeled and an assortment of granitoware, coffeepots and tin cups stir the camping blood of every visitor. To feed and care for an army, veterans though they be, is no light undertaking, and the commissary department will be one of the busiest places in Richmond from now until the reunion is over.
